

I know it's hard to see me like this -
Your child, your baby, So fragile, so small.
I know it goes against your nature not to be able to take care of me, protect me...
But, Daddy, you are!

Happy Father's Day!

Just by being there, by sitting next to me,
By watching me and holding my tiny finger.
And even when you can't hold my hand,
I know you always have my back.
You ask about my stats, my progress - and even when you're worried, you still help Mommy through the day.

feet/handprints
or photo go here

Without holding me or rocking me to sleep -
I know your smell and the sound of your voice,
I feel your love and I know you're proud of me.
I know the moments we share are special,
and that even when you can't be here,
you wish you were - and your heart always is.

And, Daddy...
You've already given me the greatest gift -
You've fought for me from the beginning,
You've believed in me.

Love,

And I can't wait to look up to you and
do all the things that daddies and their kids do.
To show the world that I have the best Daddy -
a Daddy so great, I couldn't wait to meet him!

Father's Day 2014